Command Alkon announces its Customer Conference dates and locations for the next three years.

Birmingham, AL – August 12, 2009: Command Alkon, a global leader in integrated solutions for the construction and bulk materials industries, is pleased to announce its Customer Conference dates for the next three years. This move by Command Alkon is a show of support toward the future health of our industry. Command Alkon and its bulk materials division, JWS, have developed products and services exclusively for this industry for over 30 years. By setting these conference dates for the next three years, Command Alkon wants to assure its customers that their relationship with its brand is the right choice to make in any economic situation. The Command Alkon and JWS conference offers complete product training for concrete, ready mixed, aggregate, cement, asphalt, and block producers to move their business forward by giving them the information needed to improve efficiencies, minimize costs, and increase income. Their conference rotates between large destination cities on the east to west coasts in order to accommodate domestic and international travelers.

Command Alkon's Conference is one of the industry's largest and longest-running events. The format provides customers with product training, new product showcases, product/service labs, forums and roundtable discussions, important industry updates, an industry specific tradeshow, and an opportunity to share ideas. It also gives its customers an opportunity to meet and discuss issues with Command Alkon employees face-to-face. Its multiple tracks of training offer insights to daily users, managers, owners, and other operators that utilize Command Alkon systems.

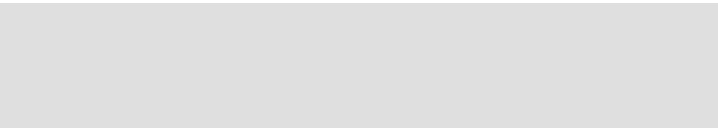

Conference Dates and locations are:

2010 – The Hilton Riverside New Orleans, LA – September 15 – 17

2011 – The Mirage Resort & Casino – Las Vegas – November 8 – 10
